This initiative is part of a series of Perspective Lectures organized by the Department of Industrial Engineering with the aim to foster the development and exchange of knowledge in the academic and entrepreneurial fields. Prof. Jean Marie Lehn's Perspective Lecture will be followed by a meeting with Ph.D. students, postdocs and young researchers.

Prof. Jean Marie Lehn is a French chemist who was awarded the Nobel Prize in Chemistry (1987) for his work on the synthesis of cryptands. Over the years his studies led to the definition of a new field of chemistry, which he called "supramolecular chemistry".

Jean-Marie Lehn is Professor at the University of Strasbourg Institute for Advanced Study (USIAS), Honorary Professor at the Collège de France in Paris and Emeritus Professor at the University of Strasbourg.
